

High chilling - Late season variety

Easy to grow, suitable for tired soil

Tolerant against root diseases

Conical, firm, bright red fruits

Very high yield

Attractive presentation

Good shelf life

Plant: High chilling variety producing berries in the late season. Easy to grow with compact and vigorous plant. Strong against root diseases. Very high productivity. Talia prefers area with continental climate.

Flowering and harvesting: the flowering season is late (+ 7 Elsanta) as the ripening time (+8 Elsanta).

Fruit: very attractive with conical regular shape. Bright red colour with high firmness and good shelf life. Big fruit size, constant throughout the picking season. The variety also show a good tolerance to mildew in field conditions. Talia is successfully grown both in tunnel and open field

Agronomical advices: Talia requires no specific fertilizing or treatment. Suitable for organic cultivation. Good results are obtained from both frigoplants and plug plants

